

al goes dental /3/ the only thing to fear

It's late at night. Al and Kelly meet downstairs. Apparently, Al has something to discuss with his daughter.

AL: We've got a real problem here, Kelly. No, I _____ if you didn't do your homework or that a guy ran out the door thirty seconds ago. It's just that my teeth are killing me. They felt fine til that damn Marcy voodooed me, now _____ so much pain I can't even sleep. Honey, will you look in there and see if my teeth are ok?

KELLY: Well, wait a minute. Let me move this _____. Well, they all look fine to me... except for the one that's fizzing. Daddy, why don't you just go to the dentist?

AL: No dentist. What I need is an ice cold beer. _____ a cold beer on a hot night.

KELLY: Are you afraid of the dentist, daddy?

AL: I'm a _____. So yes, of course, I'm scared of the dentist.

KELLY: Fear is nothing to _____, daddy. Let me tell you a little story. I was afraid once. It was two years ago. I missed the bus back from school, so I had to walk home. It was _____ dark. Anyway, I _____ this alley and I heard this noise. I turned... and there they were.

AL: Who?

KELLY: All my friends from school. So we all went over to Janie's house, and we had this dance party, oh God, it was great. Janie's mom put this broom between two chairs and we limbo'd under it, and we had cake, then we painted _____ toenails and then we went to sleep. It was really fun.

AL: Honey, daddy doesn't have long to live. _____ the part with the fear.

KELLY: _____, was I afraid of my dress? What the heck was I wearing?

AL: Honey, that's all right, it was a great story. Now, daddy's just _____ to go to sleep now. Thanks, sweetheart.

KELLY: _____ daughters for?

AL: I don't know. Have a great night.

ashamed of » cut through » dizzy enough » don't care » each other's » get to » getting pretty » grown man » I'm in » let's see » nothing like » one aside » what are