ALEX: No Tricia, why don't you go ahead? I'm gonna stay here and relax.

TRICIA: Okay, I won't _____ long.

Alex walks over to Ellen.

ALEX: Hey, how is it going? You look _____ of tired. Is something wrong? Listen, why don't you _____ a break? Let's dance.

ELLEN: No, I can't. I have to make _____ there's _____ punch available.

ALEX: Ellen, there are eight thousand cups of punch here.

ELLEN: Please Alex, I don't want to dance. I just _____.

ALEX: Come on...

They begin dancing. Alex looks like he's about to say something

ELLEN: What is it? _____ you gonna say something?

ALEX: No no no. I thought I was _____ say something and then I realized... I wasn't. Ellen, do you mind if I kiss you?

ELLEN: Alex, please, let me go.

Ellen runs out, leaving Alex puzzled. Next, Tricia sneaks up from behind and covers his eyes.

TRICIA: Guess who? What have you _____ doing?

ALEX: Dancing. I danced with Ellen.

TRICIA: Really? Well, did she tell you?

ALEX: Tell me what?

TRICIA: Oops. Maybe she doesn't want _____ to know. She decided to get married. She called her boyfriend right before the dance and said yes. Isn't that great?
