

kid-dropper /3/ grandma

And my baby's tough. When he fell at Dollar City, he hit the back of his head on the shelf, then landed on his side. He was really screaming, but 10 minutes later in the parking lot, he was laughing at a seagull. Screw the doctor. Why should I waste two hours at urgent care when 'Drae's just fine?

Same for when 'Drae got that electric shock from unplugging the night light. I put him in his crib and the color went back in his face after like 10 minutes. After he knocked his head on the shelf, he slept for a few hours, which was cool 'cause I was able to watch my soaps with no interruptions for once and with the sound on, too.

The worst was the one that happened in front of my mom. She's such a bitch, always lecturing me about everything. "Why's he out of his playpen, anyway?" "Have the landlord put in some carpeting to cover up the rough floor so 'Drae doesn't cut his face again."

She doesn't have any right to tell me how to raise my kids. Back when me and my brothers were little, she was always waitressing or out with one of her boyfriends, and she never got us a sitter. I wish she would just shut up. "World's Greatest Grandma," my ass. I sure didn't buy her that T-shirt.