

We have reached a wonderful turning-point. Now that George is 15, he is old enough to take charge of his three brothers.

At last we are free of the bother and expense of baby-sitters.

---

I would have been perfectly happy to leave the boys in George's care even a couple of years ago.

---

At 13, he was a great deal more competent to deal with a crisis than any of the girls we used to hire.
