

little brother /1/ why not us?

When the television series disappeared from our TV screens, I didn't really miss it all that much. we could play our own version of Big Brother in the Kemp household. I a big mistake but

The similarities between the game show and our family life: six people in a horrible house in the suburbs of London, privacy and no hope of escape, forced to all their differences and a few days they begin to

..... I can remember, everything at home almost exactly as it was in the Big Brother house: the conversation, the games, the tasks that are for: "Daddy, will you get my Beanie Baby down from the roof?"

The big difference,, was that in the television series, the contestants choose whichever of their housemates eliminated. That a magnificent idea. If they could do it, I thought, then why not us? If they could get rid of those no one liked,

So I gathered my wife and the boys together in the kitchen and instructed them each to nominate two members of the family. Since it was my idea, I in the nomination. But disagreed.
