hi gil, there's something I want to talk to you about uh oh. this doesn't sound too good

what makes you think so?

well, that's what you usually say right before you tell someone you don't love them anymore and are breaking up with them

oh. well, as a matter of fact, you're kind of right about that man, why do bad things always happen to good people? what?! anyway, I've given this a lot of thought... blah blah blah, yeah yeah whatever. I just don't think the two of us are working out. I mean, not that we didn't have some good times together. and it's not you, it's me. I guess I have trouble committing myself. would you mind sitting down and hearing me out, gil?

sure, go ahead

we've been drifting apart for months, you must have noticed what do you mean, drifting apart?

I mean, there's so little we have in common it didn't bother you when we were starting out you're right, I suppose you tend to overlook these things when you're in love. I used to think we could work past that but apparently we can't so you're not in love with me anymore? have you even been listening to me? you know, I've been dreading this moment from the start. even so, I'm stumped what I'm saying is we're two very different people, and what we share isn't enough to keep us going well put. devastating but well put I mean, you're smart, you're funny, you're good-looking... oh, cut the crap. and please don't give me that it's not you it's me line I'm sorry but I believe I already have was that when I was jumping around the room with the fingers up my nose? yes. anyway, I guess I'd better be on my way now and to think I was going to propose to you tonight you were? you WERE? is there a ring? there might be come on, let me see it is there a possibility you might change your mind? depends on the ring shouldn't we be more concerned with the things that keep us apart...

cut the crap for god's sake and show me THE RING!