

I wonder why we lost touch /1/ falling out

I am writing because I've been wondering why my friend Terri stopped calling. We were good friends for about a year and a half, we would stay up all night talking on the phone and Terri would call almost every day. Everything seemed cool.

I came to her house one day before work to say hello and have a little chat. We talked for a while and then I told her I had to leave for work. She didn't want me to go but I did. She asked me to come back after work that night at 2 in the morning. When I didn't show up it really made her angry.

Another friend told me Terri tried to call me about six times that night to see if I was home and she didn't talk to me for about a week after that. Then I came to see her the second time because my cousin had told me she had been calling every night for about a week but I was never home.

So I went over to her house and we had a great time. I figured she must have forgiven me for not coming that night. She asked me if I wanted to spend the night and stay for dinner but I said no. I was going to my boyfriend's house after I left hers.

- » although I promised to stop by on the way back from work, I didn't
  - » the reason I didn't come was that I was too tired and it was too late
  - » I can't figure out what I did that was so horrible
  - » she asked me not to go, she wanted me to stay with her
  - » you can't make someone like you by calling them constantly
  - » why does she need to know if I'm home at night?
  - » being friends doesn't mean being together all the time
  - » if my cousin hadn't told me about you calling, I wouldn't be here
