

As much as I like the idea I can't have TiVo. I'll watch a video all over the house. I'll take in 20 minutes in my office while I'm unpacking my briefcase. Then I watch some more in my gym while I am working out. And finish it in bed.

Toughest thing about political humor? The audience for it is always limited; about half the country doesn't give a damn. Luckily it's a big country. I've tried to get John on my show for years, and he'll do almost any show, but he hasn't done mine, which is why I think he doesn't like me.

The giant painting by John Robinson isn't flattering, because I'm not that handsome, but it does capture a twinkle in my eye, which is why I like it.

Donald is so politically incorrect. He doesn't mince words, and I never feel like he's jerking me around.

I've been driving the Prius hybrid, but I just traded it in for the Lexus hybrid. My new car is sort of an S.U.V., so it doesn't get as good mileage, but when the Lexus came along, I thought I'd see how the other half lives.

I'm sure I have superstitions even though I despise them. I do feel like I have to think about my loved ones before I go to bed at night. I've done it every day for 30 years.

I despise religion and make no secret of that. What I have is a sense that the journey of life should proceed toward selflessness. I hope that by the time I pass on I will have given up all the trappings of materialism and ego.