

Best thing about being single?
You get to date a lot of women.

I can't imagine not being free and having someone argue with my decisions.

If anyone nags me, I say, "Hey, if I wanted to be nagged, I'd get married." That pretty much ends that discussion.

I haven't seen the morning since 1968. I don't go to bed until four or five and I sleep for at least nine hours every day.

Some people look down on those who sleep in or get up late, but there are successful late risers.

Anything that goes wrong with the body you can fix with herbs.

Evenings? That's when I work.

I procrastinate by making piles of things and then moving the piles, as if that's addressing the problem.

If I put a pile on the desk, that's supposed to mean "urgent," but more often than not it sits there for weeks.

I'm actually much funnier offstage than onstage. You are never as free onstage as you are with friends at dinner.

I was never meant to be a child. I'm a control freak, and children have no control over things.

This house has a great big sunken tub, the kind I always pictured Joan Collins in. I never thought I'd be the kind of person who luxuriates in the tub. But I don't consider a day complete until I've spent thirty minutes in hot water.

Mom said I could have the bayonet when I was 13. I remember thinking, I'll never be 13.
