

Mum, Everyone Has One /4/ Where Has All the Credit Gone

While cleaning her bedroom, I _____ a pile of mobile-phone magazines under bed, so I _____ my husband to have an honest discussion with Lucy on the dangers of _____. By the end of the conversation, he knows how to play "Snake", "Memory" and "Logic", three games that come free on the phone. Granddad from Eastbourne rings to say how _____ we are to get Lucy a mobile phone for safety reasons. He'd never _____ given me one in my day...

Monday. There are 20 kids on the school bus, half of _____ have a mobile phone. One rings and several owners _____ at their bags. "It's mine. No, it's not, stupid. That's Charlotte's. Shh, I can't hear. What's that? Shut up. Sorry, mum. No, it wasn't me. There are loud giggles. Six o'clock. Got to go; Pippa's phone's ringing and she can't hear. Bye."

Later, Lucy rings to tell me her hockey match has _____ cancelled, which _____ me driving 30 miles across country. "I told you it would be useful," she says, _____. After homework, however, Lucy discovers she only has L9.40 _____. "Where has it all gone?" she _____.

been » discover » encourage » glance » have » left » obsession » saves » sensible » smugly » whines » whom