

it's over /4/ a recurring nightmare

The only things I did right were _____ us a round of investment at the start, and then hiring some extremely talented people; but _____ those victories are now bitter, because I raised the money from friends and family, and those talented people are good friends of mine. I can't imagine what it will feel _____ to tell each one of them, it's _____. I know it's going to happen, and it's like some sad _____ nightmare in my head – _____ for it means it _____ happening over and over again.

Tomorrow we have a pretty important presentation of the software we've _____ for a much bigger, more _____ local company. They have our fate in their hands, to some _____. When I met with their CEO, he casually mentioned he could finance us if he liked what we _____ offer, but _____ you start believing what successful people tell you, you're always _____ a rude surprise; they hold _____, you _____, and you're not _____ playing the game until you have a billion dollars in capital.

cards » developed » don't » even » even » extent » getting » had to » impressive » in for » keeps » like » over » recurring » rehearsing » the minute