

There's something I wanted to ask you.
It isn't obsession! I was just wondering.
I couldn't do it! I was about to ask the question, then all I could think of was, what if she said 'No'?!
I wish I could say I'm surprised but honestly I'm not.

If I'd known she was standing there, I would have told you.

You saw the way she looked at me? She must have heard everything. She knows how I feel about her and she ran away so she didn't have to hurt my feelings by turning me down in front of you.

You're thinking of the worst-case scenario.
That's not what happened. She was just caught off-guard. This may even be for the best. You said you wanted to take the next step.

If you wait, it will only become incredibly awkward! You can't leave things like this. You've got to sort it out now.
