

UH revisited (3) the extent of it

I had heard that George usually goes to Mir on the weekends, so last Saturday I went out with Martin (he and George _____ very close back in school). I wanted to go to Mir, but on the way there we saw a poster that said there was a concert, so we didn't go there until almost midnight. When I walked in, I saw couples _____ and that guy who pissed on the floor at Titanic was _____ on the floor, passed out. Some things never change, I guess.

The music was just awful and pretty loud, too. I _____ that it was some sort of a competition of heavy metal bands, so Martin and I went into the concert and I saw George and his brother _____ front of the crowd. I decided to wait until they came out to say hi, and Martin and I were sitting on the pool table when George came out. He walked right in front of me and stood right next to me and talked to some guy _____ five minutes and didn't even notice I was right there.

I realized this could go on forever so I called out his name and he turned around and _____ me, like he wasn't totally sure it was me. I said hi and he came over and he was totally surprised -- he said he knew I was coming but he thought it was in a few months still. Since I was talking to Martin, I asked him if he'd be there a while, and he said he would, so I told him I wanted to talk to him but in a few minutes.

Anyway, he left like 30 minutes later and I was still with Martin and he didn't even _____ say anything when he left. I _____ him again today and he said "Cau" and that was _____ because I was on my way to a pizza house with another friend. Maybe he feels _____ because of what happened between him and Julia? Or maybe he'll open up more next time I see him? Who knows? _____ he's really bored, according to Michael, and he just does his civil service and then _____ with nothing to do in the afternoons and evenings and on the weekends.

apparently » bother to » for like » found out » hangs around » making out » ran into » right up at the » sprawled out » stared at » the extent of it » uncomfortable » used to be